HAWK WAS SHOT BY HIS OWN GUN

WAS ACCIDENTALLY DISCHARGED ON GETTING OUT OF TRUCK

CONFESSED TO CRIMES

Wheatland, Wyo., Times Had Write-up of the Activities of the Hawk Gang Near Casper, Wyo.

(Grant City Tribune)

The downfall of one of the worst gangs of criminals ever existing in this country was the result of an attempt on the part of members of the gang to rob the store of F. H. Oehlman of Uva, Wyo., is the information given to the local sheriff's office by N. J. Sticken of the department of justice, says the Wheatland, Wyo., Times.

The facts in the case are brought out through the supposed deathbed confession of Henry Hawk, alias W. C. Conway. He is in a critical condition as a result of being accidentally shot through the body by his own gun as he and some companions were getting out of a speed wagon at Uva preparatory to burglarizing the Oehlmann store.

Hawk's story is to the effect that he and his companions were returning from Longmont, Colo., with a stolen car, and decided to pick up another car at Wheatland. Hawk told of the constant barking of a dog while they were taking the Ford car from the Nash garage, as noted by neighbors and reported in the morning after the theft was discovered.

Hawk and his men, it appears, laid up between Wheatland and Uva until morning after the car theft and on the way through Uva visited the Oehlmann store, scouting the place and later planned a burglary. Hawk states he had found a market for the goods of the Uva store in Casper and he and his fellow workers got a speed wagon and went to Uva a day or two later with the intention of making the haul. They were getting out of the truck and Hawk was shifting his gun to a better position for use, supposing the safety was on. It was discharged, the ball passing entirely through his body, entering just below the fourth rib and coming out under the shoulder blade. The shot was heard by people at the Uva hotel, but no investigation was made and the companions of Hawk put him back in the truck and returned to their headquarters, a leased ranch near Casper. Hawk lay without medical attention at this ranch for three weeks, when he was arrested and placed in the hospital at Casper, where he now lies.

Sheriff Joe Marquis of Natrona County arrested Hawk as a member of a gang of automobile thieves operating out of Casper, and also as formerly connected with notorious Midwest Detective Agency, of Kansas City, Mo. This has been discovered to be one of the best organized and most notorious gangs of highwaymen, bank robbers and daring thieves that has operated in this country.

The Ford car was driven from Wheatland to Casper where it was taken by one of the gang to Texas. It will be returned to Wheatland as arrangements can be made to do so.

Conway confessed many details of his life in crime to county and government officials while lying on his cot at the county hospital. All the facts of his career have been fully verified by officers here.

Hawk recently completed serving a term of imprisonment in the Missouri penitentiary, having been sent up from Worth County on a charge of grand larceny. At this prison he met Roselle, one of the gang which brought stolen cars to Casper. Roselle is now under arrest at Oklahoma City.

Hawk went to Clarinda, Iowa, where he stole a Dodge motor car belonging to J. C. Swanson. He brought it to Casper, where he sold it to L. R. Pfeifer. One of the members of this gang then stole it from Pfeifer. Then the car was recovered by Sheriff Marquis, 12 miles west of Casper.

This man Hawk was formerly in the employ of the Midwest Detective Agency at Kansas City. From the evidence gathered here it is said that Hagan's agents were divided into squads, these including the booze-running squad, whose function was to collect liquor, and a "bump-off" squad whose evident duty was to get rid of undesirables, so termed by the gang.

When Hawk was complimented on the manner in which he changed the assembly number of Casper motor cars, he remarked that he ought to be able to since he had changed a couple of thousand of them during his life.

Two hundred dollars in prize money has been subscribed by the merchants of Maryville for the Corn Show to be held December 5, 6 and 7 at the Armory in connection with the twenty-first annual Chicken Show. The prizes will be distributed among a great many classes to include the men, boys, and girls. CITIES ARE TOO KIND

He Says After Impressive Welcome Given Him at St. Louis by Municipal Authorities.

St. Louis, Dec. 1.—"America must work out her own program," declared Georges Clemenceau in an interview here today.

"I am only here doing my bit," the "Tiger" said. "The nation cannot live behind a wall. I want the American people to work out their own program."

Clemenceau was given a welcome at the union station that impressed him when he arrived on the old stamping grounds of Marquette. The reception touched him and he said, "The municipal authorities of your American cities are too kind." As the train was crossing the Mississippi river early this morning, he arose and went out on the observation platform.

Faint rays of the sun were breaking through the clouds and he exclaimed, "It looks as if the sun is going to give us bright welcome."

Clemenceau rose at his usual time this morning and had his regular breakfast of soup and eggs. A large crowd was at the station to give him a hearty welcome. The "Tiger" smiled and waved his hand at the vivacious crowd.

London, Dec. 1.—Documents printed today charging the support of the former government of Lloyd George to E. Venizelos, ex-Premier of Greece in his war against Turkey and promising assistance, was the sensation here today, although it has been an open secret for some time.

The matter will be taken up officially Monday in the House of Commons, when Premier Andrew Bonar Law, will ask if there is any documentary evidence that England gave Greece active support in its war in Asia Minor. It is charged that Lloyd George gave support to Greece while France was aiding Turkey. Efforts will be made to see if secret diplomatic negotiations were entered into with Venizelos. Lloyd George refused to discuss the sensational document.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

BRAKES BETTER THAN HORNS.

A current joke represents an automobile speeder who had run into a skyscraper building saying with his dying breath, "I blew my horn."

Having chuckled over the joke, consider it in the light of daily observations. What is the function of the automobile horn? What does the average driver understand its function to be? Up to a certain point probably all persons would agree on the answers. The horn is intended to give warning of the approach of a car. It is to attract attention of those in the path of the oncoming vehicle and cause them to look to their safety.

But it is not a command to them to get out of the way, though that is what many drivers regard it, if their actions are fair indications of their thought. If they get into trouble through insistence on going forward when they should have stopped they strive to exculpate themselves by protesting "I blew my horn."

The driver who does not respect the equal right of others with himself to the use of the highways is not fit to have a license to operate a motor vehicle. Sounding the horn when use of the brake is called for does not fill the requirements of proper driving or safe driving.

WELCOME TO WINTER.

When winter comes bears crawl into their holes, poets buy oil stoves, and farmers begin to do odd jobs of repairing which were neglected during the harvest season. Jack Frost, the chilly stranger of early fall, becomes a daily visitor and sometimes prolongs his calls for several days.

Screens disappear, porches are stripped of furniture, hot houses are closed, and automobiles are draped with black curtains. Flowers and shimmery frocks are gone. Reds and blacks predominate on the streets and in store windows. Humanity skips about in storm collar, heavy clothes and high shoes, laughing still.

Winter, like summer, is what the individual makes it. Most frequently it is pictured as decay, old age, or death; but it is much prettier in a snow-white coat, decorated with a bobsled full of healthy, happy youngsters, crowned with bright colored caps. The biting wind means little to these children. So long as the body is warm, the cold air is healthful, invigorating, like a plunge in an icy bath on the hottest day in the year.

Some of the more prosperous folks follow the birds to the south to escape the chill and bask lazily in tropic suns until the north is warm again. They never know the delightful sensation of burning ears and warm red cheeks, the quickened blood shot from the human furnace through every tingling fiber of the body.

Welcome, Winter! But don't stay too long!

Those who are expecting that fuel alcohol will some day force down the price of gasoline may be interested in the report that the control of the largest producer of industrial alcohol has passed into the hands of the Standard Oil Company. If everybody had the foresight of this company, what a wonderful situation that would be.

Truth is sometimes stranger even than scenarios.

Selections may be made so much easier in the morning hours, and from so much larger assortments now, that everybody should make early shopping a rule this Christmas.

Stocks are larger, assortments are broader, service is better, salespeople are in a better mood, and shoppers are in a better mood NOW. It surely ought to be a Merry Christmas, for it seems, from general observations, that preparations were never better for serving the shopper.

It is interesting to consider the reason for there being so many busy workers in the stores. They are there to make it easier for shoppers—to help shoppers fill their needs from world-garnered stocks of merchandise. And for these many workers it is going to be Christmas, too, therefore—

GOD BANKS BIG AND HARD ON THE PERSONAL UNIT

And His Big and Radiant Work Is Done by Living Apostles

(By C. L. Ficklin, Editor of the DeKalb County Herald, Maysville, Mo.)

The Sunday School lesson for next Sunday is about sending out the seventy. Jesus sent them out.

Somebody has asked this question: "Why hasn't God written his Gospel on the sky?"

That man evidently thought that there was a better way than just sending people out to tell other people.

That is the question that that fellow probably was honest in putting. God wrote one time when old Belshazzar and a lot of other soaks were full at a banquet. He wrote on the wall and it made a startling impression on the world and the record of that event has come down to us across the centuries. It is still a gripping story, this story about how God's finger traced words on the wall there at that drunken banquet. People sit up and take notice to this day when they read or hear about the story of the handwriting on the wall.

So there you are, with the question, "Why doesn't God write His Gospel in the sky?"

He could take His powerful fingers some night, say about once a month, when the moon has gone down, and when everything is dark, and He could pick a place half way up from the horizon to the zenith and write in letters that spurted fire and gold beauty letters so large that the Capital G would look just about the size of the noonday sun—He could write these words:

"Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved: but he that believeth not shall be damned."

If He'd write that suddenly, swiftly every night in the southern skies or in the northern skies, or if He'd write it once a month, or if He'd write it once a year, what effect would you think it would all have? That's the question that some fellow wants answered.

We don't any of us know just what effect it would have.

It would dazzle—there isn't any question about that.

For a while at least people going to the picture show would stop and look, and risk being late to the show in order to get to see the handwriting on the sky.

Boys playing rummy would stop in the middle of the game and look out of the window.

Thieves about ready to break into banks and blow open safes and vaults would probably never undertake a job of the kind until the handwriting on the sky went by.

Sinners at first sight of the handwriting on the sky would go white in the face and tremble.

We do not know what permanent results would follow. But we do know that God has not done it that way.

He has chosen to spread His word and His heart and His love and His Gospel through living epistles. We cannot but assume that this plan beats the handwriting on the sky, for beyond any question God knows what is the best way.

God banks on the personal unit.

A living soul is the biggest, grandest, greatest instrument that He has to carry on His message and to convey His love and to proclaim His Gospel.

And so we have what is known as "the foolishness of preaching."

And so the seventy were sent out. That's why they were sent out—to do the work of soul acting on soul, heart acting on heart, love calling forth responsive love.

I think that the top lesson in this Sunday School lesson is the glory and importance of the personal unit.

So far as I can tell in the reading of the lesson in front of us the seventy did not organize the Royal Men of Honor with a president or vice president and a secretary and treasurer, and a committee on mercy and assistance, and a committee on the distribution of canned goods.

Nothing is said about the organization among the seventy of the Ladies Golden Circle, or of the Inner Circles of the Golden Circle. And there is no evidence that they had a banquet committee. I went to church a little while back and the preacher took up the whole hour in reading reports from the various organizations of the Church. They had all kinds of machinery—machinery for this thing and that thing and the other thing. They had wheels and wheels within wheels. They had so many wheels that you could not remember them all and you felt quite sure that the wheels would scrape together and get mixed up and that the cogs of the whole system would surely get busted if they didn't watch out.

So far as I know when the seventy went out they were not organized into 1457 committees.

A man whote a book called "Crowds" some time ago. I don't remember the exact language, but in one place he suggested that it is past his ability to understand how Jesus of Nazareth ever did the work that He did do without organizing a committee.

Organization is a good thing, the right thing, the right amount, of the right quality and simplicity.

But we get too much of it.

We bank too heavy on it.

Are you a living soul?

Then you are the noblest unit of power on this earth.

You, in possibilities, are above the splendor of suns and moons and stars.

You are ahead of conventions, committees, machinery.

You outshine gold and silver.

You are more precious than radium.

You are a living epistle, just like the seventy were living epistles.

If you know how to be empty God knows how to fill you up and send you on.

If you know how to be humble, lowly, and a non-seeker of personal splendor, God knows how to take you up and make you shine above anything else that was ever seen on land or sea. You are a living epistle like the seventy were living epistles.

L. W. JAMES LOSES 28 HEAD OF YOUNG CATTLE

L. W. James lost 28 head of his young cattle by black leg this fall. The disease had been prevalent in localities and there has been considerable loss.

Mr. James vaccinated all the rest of his cattle except one, and that one died, the others lived.

Mr. James says the disease does not attack old cattle, and only the young ones are subject to it.

Better vaccinate. The lack of one dose of vaccine caused the loss of one animal to Mr. James.—Elmo Register.

Parents of Bedford, Iowa High School Girl Who Eloped Accept New Member of the Family

St. Joseph News-Press

Mrs. Lola Smith, who this time last week was a high school girl in Bedford, Iowa, is smiling today after having spent an anxious afternoon and evening in a cell at Central Police Station, after she and her husband, Jess Smith, twenty-four years old, had been taken into custody by police detectives at their rooming place. The pair was held until the arrival of the girl's parents from Bedford last night.

When the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sleep, learned that their daughter had been married they decided that the best thing to do was to bestow the parental blessing. The parents, daughter and son-in-law left the station and went to a hotel for the night. Smith, who is said to have met, wooed and won his bride in a day, told the police that he is a machinist and has a job now in the Burlington shops here. He had been employed up North, but decided to move on account of strike troubles.

SERVICE TO NTH DEGREE RENDERED BY KUCH BROS.

Couple After Wedding Ring, Is Introduced to Minister and are Wedded at Store.

Much is heard about service these days. Much is said about it. But very seldom is it rendered as it was this afternoon at the Kuch Brothers Jewelry Store. C. H. Mentzer of Clarinda and Miss Gladys McMillen of Blanchard, after going to the courthouse to get a marirage license, went to the jewelry store to get a wedding ring. After getting the necessary insignia for "matrimonial bliss," they inquired about a minister. The Rev. C. A. Harpe of LaMoni, Iowa, happened to be in the store at the time and the obliging clerk proceeded to introduce the minister to the "would-be-one" couple. After the necessary introductions and showing of credentials, they retired to the upstairs optical room of Kuchs Brothers where the ceremony was performed.

And the managers of the store say they will gladly render the same high class and efficient service to any other customers.

B. J. POST SAYS WE ARE JEALOUS OF BURL. JCT.

The Democrat-Forum Has Never Knowingly Printed a Knock on Burlington Junction

The Burlington Junction Post this week contained an editorial about a few of Maryville people being jealous of the very name of Burlington Junction. The editorial was caused by some one in Maryville issuing a street directory showing driving distances from Maryville to towns in the county, together with the population of the towns. Burlington Junction was listed as 790 population when it should have been 970.

For the information of the editors of the Post, the street directory was not printed by The Democrat-Forum, neither did this paper have anything to do with it.

The Post also charges the Democrat-Forum has printed veiled insinuations knocking against Burlington Junction. This statement is entirely without foundation.

The following is the editorial as taken from the Post:

Over at Maryville there are at least a few who are jealous of the very name of Burlington Junction. Judging from the veiled insinuations appearing from time to time in the Democrat-Forum, Jim Todd is one Merryvillian so afflicted. Now Burlington Junction and its citizens do not care how many knocks are directed this way, for they realize that every knock is in fact a boost, and they know that they are being advertised every time the name of Burlington Junction is mentioned.

But to see the extent to which the Maryville papers sometimes will go in order to cast a slur on the best town in the county, size considered, is to laugh.

Now comes the last straw. Last week Maryville issued a street directory—just like the one Burlington Junction issued two years ago. Driving distances from Maryville were shown, together with the population of the towns. Burlington Junction was shown as having a poplation of 790. The fact of the business is this town has a population of just a few less than 1,000, and is next in size to the county seat.

The Post is not attempting to say in which shop the Maryville directory was printed. Some of the type looks like that used by the Tribune, and some of it looks like the faces used by the Forum. Maybe they went in together on the job—but whatever the case, the Post knows derned well that everybody in Maryville knows Burlington Junction has a larger population than 790. It was just another one of those little slurs that really do us good, but go to show how narrow some people really are.

You don't have to coax big and little folks to eat Kellogg's Corn Flakes

"Here's a big an' full box, Betty. Mother always has several packages of Kellogg's 'cause we eat 'em up—oh, awful fast."

Just as soon as you serve Kellogg's you'll note fussy and faded appetites getting mighty sharp; you'll find big bowls being handed back for "just a few more Kellogg's, mother—they're wonderful!"

And, that'll make you glad, for Kellogg's Corn Flakes are a great speed-start for the day's doings! They make for health and happy digestions! Kellogg's are never leathery or tough, but always joyously crisp!

Kellogg's—the original Corn Flakes—will be a revelation to your taste if you have been eating imitations! For your own enjoyment, do this:—compare the big, sunny-brown Kellogg's Corn Flakes with other "corn flakes." Eat some of Kellogg's—then try the imitations! You'll realize then why Kellogg's Corn Flakes are the largest and fastest selling cereal in the whole world!

Do more than ask for "corn flakes." Insist upon KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes in the RED and GREEN package! My, but it's worth while!
